(a) We often hear, ”Ekk naari padhegi, saat peedhi taregi”. Women’s Education in India has a major preoccupation of both the government and civil society, as educated women can play a very important role in the development of the country. Education is a milestone of women’s Empowerment because it enables them to respond to the challenges, to confront their traditional roles, and change their lives. Women’s Education in India has been a need of the hour, as education is a foundation stone for the empowerment of woman. Education also brings a reduction in inequalities and functions as a means of improving their status within the family and develops the concept of participation.

What advantages does society get from having educated women? What are the various steps taken by the government to support Women’s Education in the country?

(b) Writing your autobiography can seem like an overwhelming task. To break it into manageable pieces, ask yourself questions that will separate your life into ages, experiences, and important events. Then, interview yourself just as you would another person if you were writing their life story.

The following list of questions will help you generate brilliant ideas for your autobiographies whenever you need them:

- Who influenced your personal development?
- What are your best and worst childhood memories?
- What is your family’s social and ethnic background?
- What are your relations with parents and other relatives?
- What are your main achievements in life?
- What are your goals for the future?
- What skills would you like to develop and why?
- What was the most memorable day in your life?
- What was the most important lesson you have ever learned in your life?
- What are the most important values in life, in your opinion?

Prepare your autobiography in about 150-200 words incorporating the answers to the questions mentioned above.
